PROGRAM OVERVIEW

- The Project Management Office (PMO) is at a crossroads. On the one side, PMOs are gaining popularity, on the other side, PMOs are seen as not adding value.
- In today's VUCA world, it is difficult to conceive how capital-intensive project organizations do not have PMOs (or equivalent) to manage the knowledge and tools, develop and promote methods, and provide oversight on reporting and project execution. In fact, some Fortune 500 organizations have over 50 PMOs internally. Yet, multiple studies show that the average life of PMOs is only about five years. For PMO professionals or anyone working with PMOs, understanding this dilemma is the key to making PMOs work, for your organization and for you.
- In this program, we will explore the various processes, capabilities, and good practices in the design, build, and running of PMOs.
- The program is delivered through a facilitated approach, blending theory, storytelling, and dramatic presentations.
- Throughout the program, we will discuss multiple real-life cases, review many of the good practices for both traditional PMOs and the recently evolving Hybrid and Agile PMOs.
